

Hey, Rockstar!

This email is loaded, but it's full of good stuff! Please read!

Why a weekly check-in?

For the first few weeks of this course, I'll be sending you a weekly check-in email. These emails will allow me to get your feedback and share updates/announcements:

1) Your feedback:

As this is my first full-length online course, I would LOVE your feedback. Please tell me what's confusing, what questions you still have, what you really like, and what you'd like to see more of. Typos, spelling/grammar errors – tell me everything!

2) Updates:

As promised, you get all future updates I make to this course (without extra charge). When I add new material and make updates to the course, I'll summarize them in these weekly check-ins.

3) Announcements:

Since you are part of my first wave of students ever, I'm making myself available to provide feedback, answer as many questions as I can, and share extra live training/demos over the next few weeks. When there is something important I really want you to tune in for, I'll announce it in the weekly check-in.

Ok. Now for the actual updates and announcements!

This Week's Updates/Announcements

Module 6: Advanced Techniques:

These lessons are currently under construction. I will roll them out over the next week and announce when they're finally ready. Meanwhile, the VIDEOS are available. You're welcome to watch those anytime!

Group Feedback (8-weeks):

I'm going to start providing group feedback the week of July 16th (the day after enrollment closes). As I cannot promise individual feedback, this is the best solution to providing you with tips for improvement, suggestions, and constructive critique.

How group feedback will work:

There are 8 exercises, so I'll be providing group feedback weekly for 8 weeks.

On the Monday of each week, I'll announce the exercise for that week and remind you to submit your work.

On the Friday of each, I'll pick 3-5 submissions and do a detailed review. I'll share my review through a live broadcast (webinar) that you can join in. At the end of my review, I'll happily answer any questions/comments you still have about that week's exercise (and module).

~ ~ ~

Now I want to hear from you!

Hit reply to this email and tell me:

What do you think of the course so far? Have you found it easy to navigate, have you had any issues/concerns, or maybe you haven't yet dived in?

Have a great week and I'll see you in the course!

-Sharisse

P.S. Remember to introduce yourself in the "Introduce Yourself" lesson so we can get to know you! This may be an online course, but it's more importantly, it's our awesome little community. Let's support each other as we make strides in our brush calligraphy journeys!

P.P.S. I'll post a link to these weekly check-in emails under the "Announcements and Updates" lesson in the course for easy reference.